

ARCHIVES REPORT, 2017

Documents from the years 2011 to 2015 have been prepared and will be deposited in our archive collection at the University of Canterbury's Macmillan Brown Library following this Conference. Papers for the next 5 years, 2016-2020, are currently being collected.

I encourage all our members to be "archive aware" and contribute records of the Network's various activities they're involved in. This collection of documents is the closest thing we have to a complete record of our organization. It includes information about conferences, local groups, Steering Committee, items of general interest, and much more, all of which build up the picture of who we are and what we do.

Many thanks to those who have contributed in recent times and those who keep me in the loop by adding me to their email address lists. Your help is much appreciated.

Sea of Faith members are able to access the archive collection at any time, but are reminded that the library staff need time to retrieve material from closed collections such as this. I suggest you contact the library prior to visiting. And I am happy to retrieve and copy information for those who are unable to visit. Please don't hesitate to contact me.
